

TROY ALISTAIR

With driving drum beats, catchy hooks, and relatable lyrical content, Halifax-based group, Troy Alistair, is coming in swinging with captivating and energetic performances, blurring the lines between rock, pop, funk, and rap genres. Focusing on growth, self-reflection and finding happiness in a sometimes dark world, their unique combination of influences keeps things thematically diverse while remaining pleasingly cohesive, described by Brandon Lorimer from The East as a band with "eclectic sounds" and an "unmistakable" style.
